Internship in fragility, stability, development and humanitarian aid

As an intern in the Somalia Team at the Danish Embassy in Nairobi you will receive hands-on experience with diplomacy in fragile settings and get insights into policy issues and international development cooperation at one of Denmark's largest embassies.

Since the state collapse in 1991, Somalia has been one of the most entrenched conflict zones in Africa. However, in recent years, Somalia has been on a track of recovery and has undergone significant progress. Nevertheless, the challenges for the future are many, pivoting on how development translates into results for ordinary citizens, how the Somalia state-building and federalisation process are moving on, how the struggle against the al-Shabaab continues, and how humanitarian efforts can reach the ones in need.

Learning

The most important part of being an intern in the Somalia Team is to learn and become familiar with the inner workings of stabilisation, politics, development, diplomacy and administration. You will have plenty of opportunity to work with political relations, peace and stabilisation, economic development, human rights and humanitarian assistance and refugees.

A main part of your internship involves day-to-day management of development, peace and stabilisation and humanitarian programmes as well as political processes. As an intern, you will assist on a broad array of topics, from acting as focal point on internal processes, over political and humanitarian reporting, to assisting with administration and implementation of strategies and programmes, such as the Somalia Country Programme 2019-2023 and the Peace and Stabilisation Programme for the Horn of Africa 2018-2022.

Other tasks will come up, on an ad hoc basis.

Qualifications

- A Bachelor degree and admission at master level at a Danish University. E.g. political science, anthropology, law, development studies or public administration.
- Genuine interest in international relations and development.
- Strong interpersonal skills, work independently, demonstrate initiative and value teamwork.
- Experience with organisational work through student positions and volunteering, or if you have been living and travelling in development countries - is considered an advantage.

- Danish citizenship or fulfilling the following requirements: The applicant has lived in Denmark for a longer period (at least 3-4 years), is admitted at a Danish University or Business School and at the time of applying has residence in Denmark.

Practicalities

The internship will be eligible for transfer of ETCS points at a relevant educational institution.

- 2) Receive SU and hand in documentation of concrete expenses (including flight tickets, vaccines, insurance, etc.) up to DKK 4000 per month.

Due to Nairobi being a city with high security risks there are certain limitations to the movements of the interns.
